

*IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT***

Students during spring term (09S) reported the following benefits from participating in study groups:

- “(the study group) brought up things I might not have otherwise considered”
- “forcing me to stay on top of the material and not leaving it to right before the test”
- “fleshed out foggy areas”
- “increased confidence with material/understood material better”
- “explained material in an alternate way”
- “better grades”

✓ 77% of students who signed up for study groups reported participating regularly (every week).

What is a Study Group?

A study group is a small group of students who meet together regularly once a week, facilitated by a trained leader, to discuss concepts, confusions, and insights into course material. Students review class notes, do the assigned reading, attempt the current problem set(s), and jot down points that are unclear or questions they would like to discuss **before** coming to the study group. It's helpful to know what you don't know and bring that to the study group with you. In the study group, the leader helps the students to get organized and decide which questions are most basic or important. They also encourage the students to work together and to answer their own questions. The leader is an additional resource who assists the students in understanding the process behind finding an answer rather than simply supplying the answer.
